May 21-27, 2017: National Public Works Week

National Public Works Week celebrates the vital role public works plays in connecting us all together. As the cornerstone of civilization, public works provides, maintains, and improves the structures and services that assure a higher quality of life for our communities. Its streets, roads, bridges, and public transportation keep us linked together, and its clean water and sanitation services keep us healthy and allow our communities to grow and prosper. We salute and thank the thousands of public works professionals who work tirelessly to keep us all connected. #NPWW
