

Option 7

County Constructs the Waterline

The County can use its own resources to construct the waterline.

Note: even if the County constructs the waterline, each property owner will be required to pay installation costs and the monthly utility fee (see What is the Project Cost? poster).

Benefits:

- Construction cost savings may be achieved.

Challenges:

- Landowners may still be required to contribute to the project
- Construction must be coordinated with other County projects
- Does the County have the expertise for this project?
